

Relish

The image features three white ceramic bowls with a textured, ribbed pattern. The bowls are arranged on a dark, possibly granite, surface. The bowl in the foreground is the most prominent, showing its interior and the texture of its exterior. Behind it, another bowl is partially visible, and to the left, a third bowl sits on a white plate. The lighting is soft, creating gentle reflections on the smooth surfaces of the bowls.

THERE ARE A FEW THINGS ABOUT RELISH THAT WE THINK YOU SHOULD KNOW.

It might surprise you to know that Relish has a sister company called Cabell's Designs. At Cabell's, we've been creating one of a kind ceramic pieces in our design studio for over 20 years. It's in this studio in Rome, Georgia where Relish designs are first conceived.

Our team dreams up a dinner plate, bowl, or serving piece, then our artists get to work making that dream a reality. Each piece is hand formed in clay then dried, kiln fired, glazed, and fired again, Sometimes this process is repeated multiple times until we get exactly what we think will make the next beautiful Relish piece.

Once this final sample is complete it is sent to our trusted manufacturer. Our hand formed sample is used to create a mold. Then the melamine process begins! An organic, 100% BPA free melamine powder is poured into the mold, (using a really impressive machine!) and heated until it melts and forms the final piece. But we aren't finished there! After carefully removing the newly formed piece from its mold (by hand with serious gloves!) and allowing it to cool, it still must be sanded by hand and checked for any flaws before it makes its way into a box and to our warehouse.

We think the process is pretty amazing. Because we design and hand build our molds, Relish pieces are one of a kind, making the final product a unique and elevated piece that will look beautiful on any table! AND the durability allows for worry free use. There are less expensive ways of making a melamine product, but for us, cheaper is not better...every step and detail matters to us.

RELISH IS TODAY'S EVERYDAY

THANK YOU FOR FINDING RELISH AND PLACING AN ORDER WITH US. WHEN WE STARTED THIS COMPANY, OUR DREAM WAS TO CREATE A BEAUTIFUL, QUALITY PRODUCT THAT WOULD HELP YOU GATHER AROUND THE TABLE WITH YOUR LOVED ONES AND RELISH THE TIME TOGETHER WITHOUT WORRY OR TOO MUCH FUSS. WE HOPE THIS HELPS YOU DO JUST THAT.

Thanks for letting us be a part of your everyday.

*Always Relish,
Susan, Cabell and Erika*
